

WE CLAIM:

1. An apparatus for parental community generation to permit monitoring and filtering data transmission to screen unwanted material comprising a parental community filter means to permit qualified parents to join a parental community, profile creation means to describe each qualified parent, a hierarchical infrastructure for initially screening parents to create a varying degrees of accessibility to data, a dynamic search engine to permit those members of the parental community to search the data initially screened within the limit permitted by the hierarchical infrastructure, a dynamic filter controlled by a central location to permit monitoring and filtering of the data transmitted and structuring of the infrastructure and a flagging filter component to scan messages and data prior to delivery.